1. The Thuringia Landespolizeischule, located in Erfurt, has graduated 2010 police officers and 236 trained investigators in the first year of its existence.

2. An advanced section has now been established at this school for experienced police officers. Classes are held for police administrative officers, regional chiefs, and other police officials in responsible posts. A thorough technical training is given.

3. A temporary police school has been set up in Tubers, Thuringia (located in the Schloss of the Princess von Preussen). A class of 46 students are in training to become Wachtmeisters (police sergeants). The school is directed by Oberregierungsrat Dr. THIESEN, of the Provincial Police Direction in Weimar.
